SQL Queries:

1. Conference room table with conf room name, seating capacity create table payodaRooms (roomName varchar(30),capacity integer);

INSERT INTO payodaRooms (roomName, capacity) VALUES ('Coconut', 6);
INSERT INTO payodaRooms (roomName, capacity) VALUES ('Banayan', 30);
INSERT INTO payodaRooms (roomName, capacity) VALUES ('Cypress', 6);
INSERT INTO payodaRooms (roomName, capacity) VALUES ('Lavender', 3);
INSERT INTO payodaRooms (roomName, capacity) VALUES ('Oak', 2);

2. tree table with tree names and it's details

create table roomDescription (roomName varchar(30), roomDescription varchar(100));

INSERT INTO roomDescription (roomName, roomDescription)
VALUES ('Coconut', 'A cozy room suitable for small team huddles.');

INSERT INTO roomDescription (roomName, roomDescription)
VALUES ('Banayan', 'Spacious conference room ideal for large team meetings and presentations.');

INSERT INTO roomDescription (roomName, roomDescription)
VALUES ('Cypress', 'Perfect for brainstorming sessions with a small group.');

INSERT INTO roomDescription (roomName, roomDescription)
VALUES ('Lavender', 'A quiet space designed for one-on-one meetings or interviews.');

INSERT INTO roomDescription (roomName, roomDescription)
VALUES ('Oak', 'Compact room great for quick discussions or solo work.');

LINQ Queries :

```
from pr in Payodarooms join rd in Roomdescriptions on pr.RoomName equals rd.RoomName
select new {pr.RoomName, pr.Capacity, rd.RoomDescription}
```

Output :

EntityQueryable<> (5 items)
RoomName	Capacity	RoomDescription
Coconut	6	A cozy room suitable for small team huddles.
Banayan	30	Spacious conference room ideal for large team meetings and presentations.
Cypress	6	Perfect for brainstorming sessions with a small group.
Lavender	3	A quiet space designed for one-on-one meetings or interviews.
Oak	2	Compact room great for quick discussions or solo work.
	47	